Home at Richlandtown
This Morning

NEW HOPE, Jan. 4—Dr. R. C. Magill, former burgess of New Hope, former superintendent of Washington Crossing Park Commission, and a well-known Bucks county eye specialist, died this morning at a nursing home in Richlandtown.

Dr. Magill, who suffered a stroke about two months ago, conducted offices both here and in Bristol. He was 69 years of age.

The deceased had resigned as superintendent of the Washington Crossing State Park last March after serving in that capacity for nine years. He had formerly served four terms as burgess of New Hope. Dr. Magill was a member of Lambertville, N. J., Presbyterian Church, and of New Hope Lodge of Masons.

He graduated from George School, Newtown, in 1902; and Medico Chirurgical College of Philadelphia in 1906. He then spent two years in the soft coal mining district in Pennsylvania; then engaged in general practice in Carversville and New Hope until about 30 years ago, when he specialized in eye work.

Dr. Magill served about 24 years in the Northeastern Hospital, Philadelphia, on the eye staff. He also served on the eye staff of the Lankenau Hospital and the Mary Drexel Home, Philadelphia, while on the staff in those two institutions doing clinical work, refraction and operative work.

He opened an office in Bristol in April, 1943, at 321 Mill street. Surviving Dr. Magill are his wife, Dorothy Double Magill; a daughter, Mrs. Henry Daly, New Hope; a son, James Magill, of Washington Crossing; and two grandchildren.

Mrs. James M. Morrissey, Langhorne Terrace, Dies

LANGHORNE, Jan. 4—Although in ill health for two years, death occurred suddenly yesterday for Mrs. Mary Margaret Morrissey, 55, and came as a shock to her family. Mrs. Morrissey (nee Schneider) died at her home in Langhorne Terrace where she had lived for the past 10 years. She was born in Philadelphia.

Wife of James Michael Morrissey, she was a communicant of Our Lady of Grace R. C. Church, Pennell, and a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of Langhorne Terrace.

Her survivors, in addition to her husband, are: Children, Miss Alice Morrissey, Mrs. Walter Cholewsky, James P. Morrissey, Langhorne Terrace; sisters and brothers, Mrs. Ernest Adler, Hopewell, N. J.; Mrs. John Faust, Willow Grove; Albert Schneider, Hatboro; Joseph and John Schneider, Phila.

Relatives and friends are invited to the funeral home, Bellevue avenue, Halmerville, Saturday at nine a. m. Solemn Requiem Mass will be sung in Our Lady of Grace Church, Pennell, at 10 o'clock, with interment in Our Lady of Grace Cemetery, Middletown township. Friends may call Friday evening.

Speaking before about 45 persons at the meeting of Plumsteadville Grange, on Friday, Charles M. Greenholt, Pebble Hill, gave a brief review of world affairs during the first half of the 20th century, and took a glimpse into the future.

He spoke of the advent of the atom bomb, and told of its destructiveness; and in this connection declared that the atom can be of great value to mankind if put to the proper use.

One of the things which appears to be passing out of existence, said Mr. Greenholt, is the old-fashioned country fair, where farmers exhibited their products. These, in the opinion of Mr. Greenholt should be continued.

One of the greatest men of the century, he said, was Thomas A. Edison, and in this connection he told of the many uses to which electricity has been put. He also commented upon the great strides in medicine and the sciences, and the invention of television.

The speaker called attention to two great wars, and said that they have brought about many changes. Since World War I, he said, there has been a disturbed peace and the world appears unable to get back to its peaceful way of living.

"The 1950 March of Dimes campaign must hit a new high, if the nation is to undo the ravages of the blackest toll of infantile paralysis in its history," Frank X. Shelley, Jr., County March of Dimes Director, said today in urging everyone to double his contribution to the drive this month.

"The year 1949," Mr. Shelley said, "was the most severe in the 12-year history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. With more than 40,000 persons stricken, epidemic aid funds of the National Foundation were virtually depleted," he pointed out, "and it was necessary to conduct an emergency drive for the first time in the organization's history."

The Bucks County director declared that the epidemic drive provided stop-gap funds barely enabling the National Foundation to CROYDON, Jan. 4—The Rev. Vernon M. Murray, Jr., pastor of Wilkinson Memorial Methodist Church, has been assigned by Dr. Charles W. Kitto, superintendent of the North District, Phila. Methodist Conference, as pastor of New Hope Methodist Church.

The clergyman will assume his new duties on Sunday, January 15, succeeding the Rev. C. E. Franke.

It was in 1947 that the Rev. Mr. Murray assumed duties of the Croydon Church as a student supply pastor. He is a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., where he received his B. A. degree; and is now a student at the School of Theology, Temple University, Philadelphia, where he will conclude his course in May. He and Mrs. Murray plan to move from Philadelphia to the New Hope parsonage in June.

Guard, Officer Chase
Two Young Loiterers

Two young boys, noticed loitering about the premises of Seaboard Container Corp., State road, were chased by a plant guard, Tuesday evening, and Bristol Township Chief of Police Joseph Seader was notified.

The two youths, believed to be about 13 or 14 years of age, were noticed at 7:30 by the guard as they loitered just outside the fence surrounding the Seaboard parking lot. The guard gave chase across the Penna. Railroad tracks, and later he and Seader made a search for them, without avail.

No lights are located at the parking lot, and officials are of the opinion the two were devising method of entering the lot to enter parked cars.

"Decreases in state aid for transportation face school boards in Bucks County as they begin to prepare their 1950-51 budget. The decreases are a result of the 'operation of the State Tax Equalization Law in which state aid is now computed on the market value of real estate in each district rather than the assessment, as was formerly the case," according to a statement today released by the office of Charles Boehm, Bucks County superintendent of schools.

"Districts operating their own buses will not receive as much a loss in state aid as those that do not operate their own bus system. Additional losses in state aid for all districts for general aid for schools will be effective in 1951-52. It was generally expected that all districts would lose on the average of 10 per cent of the state tax equalization law, but according to the computations of the county office, these losses will average 22 per cent of the state tax equalization law, as a result, loss from 25 to 30 per cent of their general state aid."

The statement continues: "The school districts which will not lose very much in state aid are: Langhorne Manor, New Britain Township, Warmistown Township, Tullytown Borough, and Halmerville Borough.

"The most severe losses in state aid will affect Plumstead Township, Doylestown Township, Wrightstown Township, and Buckingham Township. In those cases the losses will range between 35 and 40 per cent of the state aid."

"Districts receiving state losses between 30 and 35 per cent are Bed-

Engaged for Washington
Trip if Necessary*ROUTINE AFFAIRS

The Bristol school board decided last night to provide, if necessary, a colored chaperon for colored members of the senior class who might desire to make the trip to Washington with the senior class.

The action was taken upon the suggestion of Mrs. William Harding, and colored members of the class will be contacted to learn if any are planning to make the trip. Some Washington hotels discriminate against members of the colored race.

An illuminated bulletin board is to be erected by the Fathers' Association in front of the high school building. It will be used to publicize school activities. Permission to erect the board was granted last evening.

Alfred Lewis presented bids from Henry Protti for plumbing work to be done. The bid totaled $230. George Perkins informed the board that the new bleachers to be installed in the gymnasium will be started January 9th by the Wayne Iron Works and will be completed within five days.

The board rescinded its action taken at the December meeting.

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 4—One hundred and forty-five retiring and incoming Bucks County officials and their employees were present at a dinner last evening. A. Harry Clayton, Republican County Chairman, who is beginning his 21st year, presided.

State Senator Edward B. Watson presented former United States Senator, Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol, with a red rose for each of his 86 years and also a television set. In appreciation of that gift, Senator Grundy said: "I have lived through the most wonderful period in the most wonderful country the world has ever seen, that was stimulate enough to stand by the Constitution." Born in 1863, Senator Grundy has lived just half the life of the Republican party.

Other speakers were: Former

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, who urged courtesy and promptness on the part of the officials and their employees. Judge Boyer said: "School children are always welcome, they are glad to know they are interested in local court and government."

Judge Edward G. Blenter paid tribute to Willard Curtin and Judge Boyer; he said, "It is a little sad to see old faces depart and we welcome new ones but once an employee of the official family, you are always a member of the official family in Bucks County."

President Judge Hiram H. Keller, who for 39 years has assisted in county affairs, is beginning his 21st year as judge. He said, "Judge Boyer assisted me for twenty years and we worked together as a team."

Judge Keller said he didn't intend to run again but when so many Bucks Countians requested him to be a candidate he couldn't refuse. He thanked the Democratic party for putting him on their ticket with no opposition.

Those who gave short talks were: Former County Commissioner, John S. Roberts, Beach Haven, N. J.; Harris Holmes, president of the Local Republican Club, Buckingham; Mrs. Norman W. Lear, president of the Republican Women's Club of Bucks County; County Commissioners Simon K. Moyer, Joseph Hollowell, and Edward Hancock; Mrs. Mary Dunn, clerk of the Orphans Court and president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Local Republican Club; retiring Jury Commissioner Lester D. Thorne; the Controller, Howard G. Krupp; retiring Prothonotary, Isaac S. Gross; retiring Sheriff, H. Raymond Ahlman; retiring Recorder of Deeds, Howard Gilbert; C. Wilson Roberts, Southampton; Dr. Charles H. Boehm, County Superintendent; District Attorney, Willard S. Curtin; Jury Commissioner, J. Robert Hendricks; Sheriff Harry H. Ross, Churchillville, who said "he believes he is the only son to follow in his father's steps as Sheriff." His father is T. Hart Ross.

The Recorder of Deeds, J. Hart Jamison; Prothonotary, Joseph A. Keating; Assistant District Attorney, Donald W. Vanartsdalen; Chief County Detective, Fred H. Koehler, and Assistant County Detective William L. Stackhouse also spoke. Former Senator Grundy addressing the group, spoke as follows: "Tonight I wish to say a few words about the political problems of the American people.

"These problems have a simple cause. It is bad government—misgovernment—spendthrift, wasteful, dishonest, overbearing government, bent primarily on extending and perpetuating its own powers. "If you want to see good government in action in America, don't look for it in Washington. Look for it in the local governments. Look for it in county seats such as this.

"If the United States government could be run for a single year as honestly and efficiently and competently as the Bucks County government, the American people would be out of the woods. Their troubles would largely be settled.

To Display New Chevrolet At Weed's New Showroom

The Weed Chevrolet Co. announced today that the attractive new Chevrolet will be displayed at their new display room, Radcliffe street and Greenlane on Saturday.

The new display room and service garage will not be occupied in its entirety on Saturday, but it will be used for the displaying of the new Chevrolet because there will be more room for the large number who are eagerly awaiting to view the new creation.

The present garage occupied by the Weed agency on Pond street will continue to be used for servicing until possibly the end of this month, or the early part of February.

Last year when the new Chevrolet was placed in display at the Pond street garage there was congestion. This will not be the case at the new quarters at Radcliffe street and Greenlane on Saturday.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1950

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS
By FRANK R. KENT

Phony
Washington, Jan. 4. SOMETIMES the ardent praise of a President's friends constitutes a more deadly indictment than any his enemies can frame. An interesting instance of this is afforded in the explanation of the "legislative strategy," fashioned by his intimate advisers, which Mr. Truman brought back with him from Key West and which is expected to become the party line in the session of Congress about to open.

ACCORDING to those who reliably reflect the views of the White House "insiders," this strategy proves that, though he may not always seem so, Mr. Truman really is an extremely clever man and is just about to tie the "rigidly stupid" Republicans in a knot they will be unable to untie in time to put up even a respectable fight in 1950. In this advisory group there is considerable self-adulation and congratulation over the smartness of the presidential program. Apparently, there is no appreciation that it makes Mr. Truman appear a hypocritical and unprincipled man who calculatingly plans a particular low species of deception upon the American people.

YET, that is precisely what it does and the foresaid journalistic reflectors, though they may not themselves see it, make no effort to disguise the fact. Here is the "strategy" as they somewhat shamelessly present it. The purpose of the President at this session is to present himself as the fighting champion of the three great voting groups—organized labor, the farmers and the Negroes. At the same time the "stupid" Republicans are to be made to seem the enemies of these groups, which then are expected to show their gratitude to the Democrats at the polls. But all this is to be accomplished without the passage of any helpful legislation whatever for these groups before the election. True, in his soon-to-be-delivered state of the Union message the President will strongly insist again upon repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, the enactment of his so-called civil rights program and the passage of the Brannan farm bill, the cost of which even its author has not been able to estimate.

THESE are the three pieces of legislation which Mr. Truman will demand in his message. But, say those who framed this "strategy" and are, curiously enough, proud of it, not one of these measures will be passed. "Nothing," wrote one of the more outspoken of the Fair Deal commentators, "could more upset the White House than for the law-makers to howl to the President's expressed will in this session." In brief, the "demand" will be wholly insincere. The message will be a phony. The presidential recommendations will be frauds. The whole idea is to beat the drums for these three pieces of legislation, to put up a grand show in their favor but in all three cases refrain from putting enough Administration weight behind any one of them to permit its passage. Success of this scheme, it is pointed out, will not only preserve all three as live issues for the 1950 campaign but will enable the Truman Administration to blame failure of its phony program upon the Republicans and Democrats, whom they will indict as enemies of organized labor, the farmers and the Negroes.

THERE are several things to be said about this "strategy." One, of course, is that, accepting the printed explanations of those who favor and framed it, it is one of the most brazen pieces of political skulduggery ever known in our politics. Another is that it is entirely typical of the political advisers by whom Mr. Truman is surrounded. Most of these are decent men in their personal lives, but in politics appear to have no sense of right or wrong and are willing to form any combination, make any alliance and practice any deceit to win an election. The thought of how their political plans will affect the country is so completely secondary as not to be considered at all. Every legislative proposal, every White House recommendation is rooted in politics. Every move is made with the view of holding organized labor, the farmer and the Negroes—the three bought groups upon whose support Mr. Roosevelt was three times elected and which the Truman effort is to see stay bought.

HIS advisers are not consciously wicked. Their journalistic spokesmen ought to know better, but the White House political strategists do not. This is the way they were born, bred and trained. The question is, can they get away with it this time? The strategy, of course, is based on the belief that the great mass of the people are credulous dupes. It is an insult to the intelligence of every decent citizen and certainly ought to be resented by the three groups with whom they are playing. But the Fair Deal, like the New Deal, has immensely superior propaganda agencies. It also has a tremendous bureaucratic political machine. Also it has a great deal of money. And, it is true, the split Republicans help by their stupidity. Nevertheless, it is a revolting piece of hocus-pocus and not the least offensive phase of it will be the extreme smugness of its advocates and the unctuous and noble sentiments which will pour out from Administration spokesmen in its favor.

How Much Does the Average Family Spend for Clothes?

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

WHAT proportion of the average family's income is spent on clothes? When this income increases does the proportion spent on clothes remain the same? Here is the well-known Engel's law of family expenditures: As the family's income increases, the proportional expenditure for clothing, rent, fuel and light continue to be fairly constant while the proportion for food decreases and that for cultural enjoyment increases.

At the lower income level, of course, the largest percentage of the income must go for food. The remaining dollars are divided among the other family needs including clothing. In some cases debts are incurred to secure bare necessities and the family operates at a loss. As the family income then increases, more of it is spent for food until fairly comfortable living is provided by the income earned.

Recent Book

In that recent book, "Clothing for Children," chock full of facts, by Thompson and Rea, two brilliant home economists, one may cull the following: In the period 1935-36 from 8 to 14 per cent of the family income in the United States went for clothing. The average for all income levels was about 10 per cent. For the family with an income of as much as $15,000 the proportion was about 14 per cent.

On which members of the family is most money spent for clothes? According to Benjamin R. Andrew (Economics of the Household), the apportionment among a family of five is about like this: for mother, 31 per cent; for father, 27; twelve-year-old child, 17; eight-year-old child, 15; four-year-old child, 10 per cent.

Farm Family

Thompson and Rea state that if a farm family spent $100 a year on clothing, about $35 would be used for the mother's clothing, about the same amount for the father's and $30 for a ten-year-old. If a farm family with the same income had three children, the parents would spend about $30 each, leaving $40 to be divided among the three children.

As a rule, farm families spend less on their wardrobe than city families of comparable incomes, in spite of the fact that the farm home has more persons to be clothed. Perhaps farm families assign a larger proportion to the automobile and savings. Of course, clothing means more to city dwellers in respect to social prestige.

Differ Widely

Families of like incomes differ widely in what they spend for clothes. In some families many of the garments may be made at home while in other families few or none are. Housewives vary widely in wisdom at shopping for clothes.

Wise parents have occasional family conferences for talking over what they have to spend, what clothes each member needs, and the best choices that can be made. They revise their plans from time to time and they remember that the budget must be balanced. All the desirable family relationships emphasized in this column from time to time may be very useful when any member of the family wishes to have some new clothes. 1946 to 1949

True, housewifery has been made much easier by a host of gadgets and by people like the aforementioned flour manufacturer. Ingredients tossed together on an assembly line scale make every young bride potentially a better cook than her grandma. But a contest like this may also start housewives to thinking.

Putting a $50,000 premium on the efforts of one of the group makes it a dollar and cents proposition in the minds of all of them. It may be that the man of the house will be hearing some of the finer details about how much labor in the kitchen is worth. Revolt, and not just stew, may be brewing in the kitchen.

IMPORTANT—
In More Ways Than One!

GOOD TELEPHONE SERVICE, at low cost, is important to nearly everyone. But that's not all.

Bell Telephone men and women in Pennsylvania are paid more than $100,000,000 a year. Earned in Pennsylvania, most of these millions are spent in Pennsylvania.

Some 2,000 different Pennsylvania businesses and industries in over 200 Pennsylvania communities are paid additional millions of dollars for Bell Telephone supplies.

Pennsylvanians in all walks of life are paid still more millions of dollars as a return on the money they have invested in Bell Telephone securities.

All this adds up to the fact that many people in many parts of Pennsylvania have a stake in the successful operations of this business.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Your Commentator
By Jim Larkin

"Here's a whole year ahead to get many things done!"
Ah—you'd better not use that philosophy, son.
For a year has a habit of whizzing away;
The smart motto to follow is
DO IT TODAY!

A new motorized hand-operated snow remover can throw snow a distance of 25 feet. What a treat for the sadistic citizen who finds delight in piling his snow on his neighbor's sidewalk.

GIRLS OF MERIT
It's about time to admit that it is not only men who are meritorious. Many women and girls deserve the salute, as was revealed at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago during November. I wish that there was space to tell of all the many girls and boys who won honors for achievement in the numerous 4-H activities, for all these hard-working citizens deserve wide acclaim. But I do want to mention Helen Baker, 17, of Swifton, Arkansas, who, after completing 51 projects in 7 years of club work, became a National Scholarship winner in safety work covering a period of 5 years.

Helen says that farm life and work are enjoyable, as long as we are able to be up and about, but careless use of one implement may maim, kill, or cause one to lose several days of work. Another great danger is fire, and the removal of fire hazards and teaching fire prevention methods have kept this capable young lady very busy. Her work has included demonstrations, public speeches, radio work, and the writing of 12 articles.

Another unusual girl is Doris Clifford, 18, of Cynthia, Ky., who was the only girl winner in the Tractor Maintenance program. She received special acclaim, not only for her tractor maintenance skill, but for a complete 4-H activity record.

So long as there are girls like Helen Baker and Doris Clifford, things will continue to look bright for our country. And I hail 4-H for the inspiration it has been to such young people.

DEFINITIONS IN RHYME

Although it is not often met in ordinary use, For—to conduct, or guide, or bring—there is the word, CONDUCE.

There are various words for the common noun, "smell." And OLFACIT is one, but smell serves just as well.

Perhaps you received a gift of an electrical device for Christmas. If it is something you might use in the bath-room—a hair dryer, heater, razor—remember to keep it away from the plumbing and not touch it when you are in the bath tub, or when standing on a damp floor. It could mean a quick flash.

I made no New Year resolution. Requiring austere execution. I'll meet things as they come along, And try to do right, 'stead of wrong.

A Milwaukee man was given a carton of cigarettes for Christmas, but smoked less than one pack. While reading the paper he fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in his hand. Damage to the home through the resultant fire was $3500. Be fire conscious and cautious always.

In the fascinating little magazine, SCIENCE NEWS LETTER, we find an item headed: "Revival of Chestnut is now Possible." What do they mean, "revival"? Pending vaudeville's return, the radio funny-men faithfully have kept the pulpit going on all the old gags and wheezes.

Retiring and Incoming Officials of Bucks County Attend Dinner

National expenses would be slashed, the mystery and hocus-pocus of our national misdeeds would vanish, taxes would drop to a point where the American people could afford to pay them, and our national debt would be on the way to being retired.

"Put it the other way round. If Bucks county was as badly governed as the United States, then the county would be in debt upwards of $200,000,000, and going deeper every year. Taxes would total $30,000,000 a year, and climbing higher. And the county would be handing out government checks to eight or ten thousand voters on various pretexts—mainly to try to buy political support. Run the figures out for yourselves, and you will see they are substantially correct.

"If county officials tried that sort of thing, the voters would run them out of the county. Why then do the same voters permit the national government to do it and get away with it? There is the big political question of this generation.

"One of the reasons is that the county government is close to the voters, while the national government is remote and far-away. The county government has to be responsive to the people because it lives with them. They are its neighbors. They know what it is doing. They can ask questions and insist on the answers.

"But the national government is too far away for anyone to ask questions. Lately even Congress has been refused the answers—and Congress was set up by the Constitution as the American people's special representatives to see that the Federal government was run right.

"Moreover, the national government has grown so big and complex that the average voter thinks he couldn't understand it anyway, even if he could believe what the national government tells him.

"Big government has always been the enemy of the people. It seeks always to get bigger and bigger. Government starts out being the servant of the people, but once it gets the bit in its teeth it reverses the situation and becomes the people's master. When it gets big enough, it can lie and get away with it. And when it gets still bigger, it can compel the individual to do whatever it says and keep his mouth shut about it. That's where we are headed today.

"The people who founded this nation disbelieved in big government. They wrote the Constitution to set up a government which would be large enough for emergencies, but which would have checks and balances to keep it from getting big enough to become tyrannical. Two things have happened. Industrious-ly the executive branch of our government has smashed down the checks and balances which the Constitution created for the purpose of keeping the people, and not the government, the rulers of the country. And then some smart gentleman invented the current practice of perpetual emergencies.

"We haven't been out from under some emergency or other, real or imaginary, for the past seventeen years. A whole new generation has grown up which doesn't realize that it is possible for a country to be run so well, emergencies don't come along one after the other like street-cars.

"There are certain things which big government does. One of these is to seize the people's property and earnings, and use them to keep the rulers in office. The seizing is done through taxes. The spending is done where it will buy the most votes.

"Sixty million working people in this country are paying Uncle Sam about a fifth of their earnings each year, largely for the purpose of keeping a Republican National Administration from getting in and reducing taxes.

"This money goes for many purposes. A large slice of it is spent hiring hundreds of thousands of political workers on the Federal payroll to do work which a third as many could do better.

"A great deal of it goes for the purpose of keeping prices sky-high on whatever these sixty million workers have to buy—food, clothing, houses, etc.

"Still more of it is handed over to foreign nations whose great ambition is to create production lines of their own to compete with these sixty million workers, and eventually throw them out of work.

"You may say that none of this program makes sense. I agree. You will say that it cannot fail to bankrupt the country. Again, I agree. We are headed that way. Long ago the government passed the point of spending all it really had to spend, and is keeping the handouts going by ruinous taxation and inflation.

"Did the American people ever really vote for such a program? The answer is no. The Democratic campaign which produced the New Deal was a promise of beer and economy. The county got the beer—but it's still waiting for the economy.

"Again and again, where individual Republicans have stood up fearlessly to condemn these and similar policies as corrupt, fraudulent, immoral and disaster-bound, the American voters have rallied behind them and voted overwhelmingly against the false promises and follies of the New Deal. That happened in the James campaign in Pennsylvania in 1938, and in the Brecker campaign in Ohio that same year. It happened in the Martin campaigns of 1942 and 1946. And it happened nationally during the Congressional campaigns of forty-six.

"Last year when President Truman was re-inaugurated, he said that he had a 'mandate' to broaden and deepen the give-away policies of his government. He said that the people who founded this nation disbelieved in big government. They wrote the Constitution to set up a government which would be large enough for emergencies, but which would have checks and balances to keep it from getting big enough to become tyrannical. Two things have happened. Industrious-ly the executive branch of our government has smashed down the checks and balances which the Constitution created for the purpose of keeping the people, and not the government, the rulers of the country. And then some smart gentle-

American people had spoken, and that what they asked for was bigger and more expensive handouts.

"Yet the truth is that only half of the American people went to the polls at all on election day in 1948, and only a fourth of them voted for the re-election of President Truman. Actually, more voted against him than for him, but his opposition was split three ways.

"For more than a year there has been a tug-of-war at Washington between the President and Congress over this question of runaway handouts. This country would have been deep in socialism long before this, except for the resistance of Congress.

"But this deadlock is not one which can last. Something must give. There is no reason to expect the President to back down. Congress will reconvene with the discouragements of last fall's elections confronting it. It may or may not continue to be able to hold the line.

"The break can come at any time in an entirely different direction. The nation's economy is already far overstrained. We owe more in debts than there seems any prospect of ever repaying, and are steadily going deeper. Credit has been inflated to near the bursting point. The dollar is no longer anything more than so much fiat currency.

"One more mistake piled on the mountain of them already made at Washington could release these tensions in the worst panic, collapse and depression in all history. We are on thin ice, and the break-up could come terribly fast.

"What can be done?

"There is and has been only one potential savior of the American nation, and that is the Republican Party.

"True, its counsels have been divided. There are those who recognize the dangers and seek to combat them. There are those who want to equivocate, temporize and imitate.

"But the backbone of the Republican party consists of those who have inherited the philosophies of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln, and who are unwilling to see the American commonwealth sold down the river of socialism without one more battle.

"Here and there are arising courageous, inspiring leaders in the Republican ranks who are accepting the challenge of the times, and are preparing to carry squarely to the people the great issue of freedom versus socialism, slavery and bankruptcy.

"Such leaders deserve the support of all patriotic Americans regardless of party. Especially do they deserve Republican support.

"Basically the issues are very simple. We can't have our cake and eat it too, regardless of all the hokum handed out by the White House. We can't waste the principal and still get the interest. We can't harvest fruit and timber from the same tree. We can't get eggs and drumsticks from the same hen. We can't get milk and beefsteaks from the same cow.

"The resources of the whole American people are being plundered and dissipated by the worse political swindle ever perpetrated.

"One of these days, the bottom of the barrel will be reached, unless we awaken in time, and it will be found that not only has the nation's wealth been squandered, which is bad enough, but its capacity to produce more wealth has been destroyed, which is infinitely worse.

"This generation of Americans inherited two great assets which had been proudly handed down from the founders. One is Constitutional liberty, and the other is an economic structure capable of producing greater wealth and prosperity than any other form ever created.

"Both of these great American assets are being wasted and destroyed.

"Will it be possible this year to rouse the American electorate to the urgent need for salvaging and protecting these two great American institutions, so that they may be enjoyed by our children and grandchildren?

"Or does this generation of Americans propose to leave as its legacy to the future nothing but a mountain of bills for the spending spree which has been operating out of Washington for the past 17 years?"

Extend Period for Collection Of Toys To Go To Europe

Word has been received by Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, here, that the Tide of Toys (TOT) program has been extended to January 15th.

The response to the appeal for toys for the children of Europe has been amazing. So many toys have been received from all parts of the nation that it has been necessary to charter another ship.

"Bristol has been very generous,"

but the Bracken Post feels that many people were so busy over the holidays that they forgot about the collection, but now that the holidays are over they will have time to get a toy or two together for this worthy cause.

It is requested that no war toys, pistols, etc., no electrically-operated toys or fragile toys be included. It can be easily understood the reason for this request. It is also requested that a personal letter be attached to each toy.

Due to the enormous task of packing, wrapping and safely packing these toys, the Bracken Post would like to have all toys in by Wednesday, January 11th, so that they can be delivered to the ship at Philadelphia by Sunday, January 15th.

Toys may be left at the Bracken Post Home, 619 Radcliffe street, or at the Community House at Bristol Terrace; or at 8 Fleetwings Drive, Fleetwing Estates.

A phone call to the Bracken Post Home, Bristol 9837, or to Bristol 7245 will start a Legion member to your home to pick up your toys.

It is also requested that all toys donated be in good working condition, as it will be impossible to repair any broken toys.

carry on through the last three difficult months of 1949. But if those who were stricken are to continue receiving help, resources must be replenished in the forthcoming March of Dimes, January 16-31. Mr. Shelley said.

"The financial problems involved in caring for polio victims are increasingly difficult not only because of widespread epidemics but also because of soaring medical and equipment costs," he said.

"Only an enormously successful March of Dimes appeal will enable the National Foundation to provide continuing care for the thousands already stricken while at the same time preparing for any eventuality 1950 may bring. The year 1949 has taught us that we must be alerted for extremes."

There is also urgent need for funds to continue the National Foundation's all-embracing research program aimed at ferreting out means of prevention and control of the crippling disease, Mr. Shelley declared.

Experiences On A South Pacific Isle Recounted

ANDALUSIA, Jan. 4—Charles Donahue addressed his fellow members of Bensalem Rotary Club in King hall last evening, telling of experiences on the south Pacific island of Espiritu-Santo. Donahue spent 15 months on that island.

Part of his colorful account was of war operations and installations, and other details were of the lives of the natives. The speaker described the stages of life of a native, telling how when a child is born it is wrapped and kept that way for 10 or 15 days, then bathed. "At the age of six years, the male gets his tribal tattoo, and then buys a wife. From then on his wealth is gauged by the number of wives he owns."

Donahue expressed the belief that the natives' mode of living is in some respects better than that of people in the United States.

Vice president H. Raymond Anderson was in charge of the session.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Philip Henry
Pastor
Bensalem Presbyterian Church

"He was despised and rejected of men." (Isaiah 53:3)

The saddest thing about the life of Christ was the lack of welcome he met among those He came to bless. He came with love in His heart wanting to draw men away from sin to Himself. "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not." They would not welcome Him.

In Holman Hunt's picture, "The Light of the World," the door has no knob on the outside; it can be opened only from within. You can keep Christ waiting outside if you refuse to open your heart. Your refusal may not seem to be a great sin. Perhaps it is only a general feeling of indifference, but it is still a rejection of the Son of God. This is the greatest of sin.

Our Prayer: Lord Jesus, grant me an open mind and I will open my heart. Amen.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Joseph Giametro, Franklin street, entertained co-workers of Seaboard Container Corp., at a Christmas party. Home "movies" were shown and television programs enjoyed. TULLYTOWN OUT TO WIN 3RD STRAIGHT COURT TILT HERE

Tullytown A. C. will go after its third straight win of the Bristol Basketball League tonight as it lines up against the Franklin A. C. aggregation on the Rohm & Haas court. In the second contest, Rohm & Haas plays the Hibernians. First game will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Tullytown has scored wins over Rohm & Haas and the Hibernians while Franklin lost its opening game but with the acquisition of the high-scoring "Ernie" Ransome was a different team as it won over the Fifth Ward Sporting Club.

Outstanding courtmen on the Tullytown team are the Lynch twins, Roy and Gene, Dick Anderson, Norman White, "Mickey" Stradling, "Jim" Hoernle while the Franklin team will depend on Ransome, "Bill" Wallick, Bert Barbetta, Tony Palumbo, and its newly-signed guard, "Pete" DeLuca.

Rohm & Haas and the Hibernians are both victorious. The Hibs lost to Tullytown and Profy's while the chemical mixers bowed to Tullytown and the Profy team.

Both the Maple Beach aggregation and Hibs lineups are studded with high-scoring players who haven't hit their stride and should these players find the range of the baskets tonight, the score will mount into high figures.

Sunday evening, Fifth Ward will play the Profy contingent and Rohm & Haas clashes with Franklin.
